Asbestos Sad Irons . .

The Kitchen is lacking that does not contain a set of ASBESTOS SAD IRONS.

The Hood of this Iron is lined with Asbestos which greatly retains the heat of the Iron Core and prevents the heat from reaching the hand of the operator.

The Handle is always cold, is very durable, and is shaped to fit the hand. Will not break like the ordinary handle on old style Irons, and is highly finished.

The Metal Parts are finely nickel-plated, and the Cores highly polished.

The Price is $2.50 per set—the same as is charged everywhere, and to buy a set of ASBESTOS IRONS means the inauguration of happiness on IRONING DAY.

W. A. MOORE, Manager.

Red Deer Railway Bill.

An act to incorporate the Red Deer Railway and Power Company has been for sometime before the railway committee of the Legislature of Alberta. The company consists of G. W. Smith, J. J. Gaetz, F. W. Galbraith, W. A. Moore, and J. Carlyle Moore. The bill as presented the railway committee was strongly objected to by the council and Mayor Gaetz was in Edmonton looking into the matter last week. The clauses most strongly opposed were 4 and 5, which read as follows:

CLAUSE IV. The said company is hereby authorized and empowered to survey, lay out and construct and operate by electricity, compressed air, gasoline, and any other motive power approved by the Minister of Public Works, a double or single track railway of the gauge of four feet eight and one half inches, with all necessary branches, switches, sidetracks and turnouts in the Town of Red Deer and in township 38 in range 27 west of the fourth meridian and from a point within said town eastward to Contant with a branch from the said railway to the coal fields on the Red Deer river and from Contant northeasterly to Nevis and from any point in the said Town of Red Deer to such point or points outside the same as may be approved by the Minister of Public Works.

CLAUSE V. The said railway may be carried along and upon such public streets, roads, highways, and bridges as may be convenient, provided that so far as any such streets, roads and highways are within the limits of any municipal corporation, the constructor of the railway thereupon shall be first authorized by a by-law of such corporation, and the company and such corporation may make and enter into any agreement as to the terms upon which it may occupy any street or highway.

J. T. Moore, member for Red Deer, is chairman of the railway committee, he is supposed to look after the interest of this town. How does he do it? We cannot find that he has entered any protest against the bill, and it was left for the town to go to the expense of sending the Mayor to look after our interest and engage legal help in Edmonton to see that the rights of the electors of this town were not taken from them. After the question was discussed by the Attorney General Mayor Gaetz, O. M. Bigger, solicitor for the company, Mr. Bick, solicitor for the Town, and the railway committee it was thought the points objected to could be satisfactorily settled. Mr. Robert on, High River, thought the bill should be held over until the railway Act was passed. Mr. McKenzie, (MacLeod) moved that the bill be adjourned sine die until considered and the motion was carried.

New Opera House

Plans and specifications are out for a new Opera House and W. M. Jarvis will have men at work next week on the building if the weather permits. The structure will be situated on Gaetz Avenue north, opposite the News office and just north of the Smith & Gaetz block, and will be of solid brick, with cement foundation. The Opera House will be built something after the style of the Lyric Theatre, Calgary, with two or three stories in front, and a large ten foot hall leading to theatre in the rear, which will be built on the ground floor and occupy the two stories and also have a dome and a gallery while the seats will be on a sloping floor to the stage giving all a good view. The floor space will be about 75 feet square, and will have a seating capacity of fully 800. Everything about the theatre will be first class and up to date. There will be a hall over the stores in the front which will be used probably for a lodge room.

C. O. F. Banquet.

The fourth annual banquet of the Canadian Order of Foresters of Red Deer was held at the Arlington hotel on Friday evening last Feb. 22nd. About 90 members of the Order and guests sat down to the tables which were tastefully decorated and loaded with luxuries. Mr. F. S. Simpson occupied the chair, and was supported on his right by Chief Ranger Isiah McDougal, and on his left by Mr. Alexander, organizer for the Canadian Order of Foresters in the west.

After luncheon a suitable toast was proposed and responded to by a number of Red Deer's prominent citizens. "Our King," proposed by the chairman was responded to by the company singing "God save the King." "Our Province" was responded to by W. L. Oumette, and Canada's national anthem was sung at the close of his remarks. "Our Town" was coupled with the name of R. C. Brumpton. Mr. Alexander responded to the toast "Canadian Order of Foresters." He made a very appropriate speech outlining the work that had been done by this noble order during the past year. Mr. Alexander expressed himself as well pleased with the progress of Court Red Deer and wished them continued prosperity in the future. "Our Learned Profession" was proposed by M. J. Manning, of the Merchants Bank, of this town, in a very fitting and appropriate manner and I. W. E. Payne responded, making a pleasant address, an instrumental duet by Messrs. Patchett and Clark, was one of the pleasant features of the evening. "Our Ladies" brought A. H. Ilsey to his feet and although he is naturally of a retiring disposition, he did the subject ample justice. Last but not least "Our Host and Hostess" was responded to, by T. F. Ellis in a few jovial remarks after which the evening's proceedings were brought to a close by all singing Auld Lang Sine.

Webb Gillis, after causing his friends a pile of anxiety, has turned up again alive and well. It was feared he had perished during the cold spell as nothing could be heard of him, but he only took it into his head to do a little trapping on the side and disappeared from the world for a time. His ranch is about fifty miles east of Stettler.

On Friday night the Olds hockey team played Lacombe seven for the championship of Central Alberta on Calgary ice, and won by four goals to three. Previous to this game the standing of both teams was six points all and the final game should have been played on Olds ice but owing to soft weather this could not be done. Both teams were pretty evenly matched and the game although a hot one from start to finish, was devoid of rough play.

F. Michener & Co. are making extensive improvements in their business. The office at present occupied by the Advocate has been rented by the firm and they will occupy the new premises as soon as new quarters for the Advocate can be built on Mann-street. They have put in a two horse power electric motor to run their cutting machines and it gives good satisfaction. Mr. Michener says the firm intends putting in a cold storage plant next summer and run an up to date shop in every respect.

At the meeting of the Grand Lodge A.F. and A.M. of Alberta, at Macleod last week Rev. Canon Hinchliffe was elected District Deputy for this district. The Grand Master elected was H. C. Taylor, of Edmonton. The next meeting will be held in Edmonton. A special meeting will be held in Calgary in April to discuss constitutional amendments.

In the hurry of going to press last week we did not get far enough into the explanation of Mr. Sharman's opinion regarding the Opera House. Mr. Sharman said and still says the building on the ground floor level is safe for business purposes but that it is not advisable to use the Opera House itself. This is also Mr. Paradis' opinion who at the request of the Council examined the building.

Three rinks from Red Deer took in the bonspiel at Innisfail which opened last Wednesday. The skips were Drake, Jarvis and Welliver. Some of the strongest rinks in the Province were present, including Miquelon and McKillop, of Calgary, and Trimble, of Lacombe, besides Innisfail's two splendid rinks. Drake's rink took fourth place in the West trophy series capturing four fine razors. Jarvis was unfortunate enough to drop out early being defeated by Kremer of Innisfail. Welliver came into the semi-finals of the Royal Hotel trophy but was defeated by Wilson, of Innisfail, in a very close contest, the game being tied at the twelfth end. The rink took fourth prize in this series, carrying off the silk ties. The district medal competition resulted in a win for Innisfail, Red Deer defeating Lacombe and Innisfail defeating Red Deer by two points. The ice was very heavy the last day and good curling impossible, the rinks were in fine shape Wednesday and Thursday and the Innisfail curlers did all in their power to make the visiting curlers welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Murphy returned from their wedding trip last week.

The Western General Electric Company are installing new plant and in a very short time will have six times the power they have at present. A large Corliss engine has been added and electric motors will be installed throughout the town which will be a great convenience to business people, especially if the power does not cost too much.

A. H. Barber, one of our leading musicians, received last Friday a very fine Ealey organ from Gourley, Winter and Leeming, the well known piano and organ people, Toronto. These organs are among the finest made in the world and Mr. Barber's organ is one of the best turned out by this firm and is probably the finest organ for its size in the district.

There was a good attendance of farmers and great interest was displayed by those present throughout the evening.

THE NEW RAILWAY BRIDGE.

Work on the piers and abutments for the new C. P. R. Company's bridge over the river here is progressing rapidly. Three bridge girders, consisting of about 150 men, have been working here for the past two months excavating and making ready for the concrete work. The northern abutment is now nearly completed and a large gang is working on the centre pier which will have to be completed before the ice goes out. But foremen say the steel work is done and the steel work will not be put up until next fall.

Willowdale A. F. A.

A strong branch of the Alberta Farmers' Association was formed a week ago Saturday at Willowdale. Twenty of the leading farmers of the district joined and they at once proceeded to business by electing a strong list of officers who are bound to make the Association a success. The officers were as follows: President Thos. Hoskins, Vice-President S. Wilson, Sec'y Treas., D. J. McLennan; Directors, A. H. Cody, W. J. Reay, Richard Gummow, B. J. Wade, W. B. Henderson and J. W. Irvine.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted: We, the members of above Assoc'n being desirous of having more railways built, constructed and operated in the Province of Alberta for the benefit of settlers and the public generally, do memorialize the Government of the Dom. of Canada and the Province of Alberta as follows:— I. That although we are in great need of more railways, we beg to protest against the system of granting charters to railway promoters for such railways to be operated by either steam or electricity, unless said promoters are required to make a deposit of "at least" five per cent., in cash or certified cheque, of estimated cost of building such railways at the time of such charter being granted, as a guarantee of good faith that they, the promoters, are prepared to build, construct and put in operation "at least" ten miles of such railway within one year from the date of such charter being granted and not less than twenty miles per year until completion, failing to do this they shall forfeit both charter and deposit.

II. That all railway charters granted in the Prov. of Alberta, the words "at, in or near," where they appear, shall be struck out and the words "from and to" substituted.

III. That no extension of time be granted to any promoters for the commencement or completion of railway work under any charter now existing or to be hereafter granted.

IV. That no charters be granted for railways to operate by either steam or electricity other than for the standard railway gauge at present in use in Canada. The association will meet in the school house the first and third Saturday of each month until end of March, and first Saturday of each month afterwards until the end of October.

The painters have commenced work on the inside work of the New Fire Hall.

H. H. Humber has moved his up to date jewelry business into his new store, one door west of his former place.

Miss Catherine Speakman died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. James Smith, six miles south west of Red Deer, on Friday last after an illness of several weeks. Decayed contracted a severe cold and it was thought she was in a fair way to recovery when complications set in and she passed away in spite of all that could be done for her. Miss Speakman was a sister of James Speakman, J.P., of Penhold and had many warm friends in the Penhold and Red Deer districts who will regret to hear of her death. The funeral took place on Monday last in the Methodist Church where service was held, Rev. Mr. Farrell officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Earle of Penhold, after which the funeral proceeded to the Red Deer Cemetery for interment. We extend our sympathy with many of the old friends, to the afflicted family in their bereavement.

The Red Deer Presbytery. The Presbytery of Red Deer met in Olds, on Thursday, Feb. 14th. Rev. K. C. McLeod, Ponoka presiding as Moderator, and Rev. J. E. Hogg, Wetaskiwin, acting as clerk. Over twenty members were in attendance. The principal business was the hearing of reports for the churches and mission stations for the year 1908 these all showing gratifying progress notwithstanding the rigorous winter. Two fields became self sustaining, and two others have gone on the augmented list. A number of new fields were opened. It was decided that the Presbytery was growing so large that a division was necessary, and the Assembly will be asked to make two Presbyteries from Lacombe South to be called Red Deer and the other from Lacombe north, taking in the two branch lines of railway to be called Lacombe. Rev. J. R. Harcourt, on furlough from mission work from India was present and spoke of the work on the Indore, Central India mission. Curling Notes.

Things have been lively at the curling rink the past few days. W. H. Quinette won the district medal by making 24 points, one point over Brumpton. This competition was for members of last year's club only.

The single competition was won by Brumpton yesterday. Brumpton defeating Jarvis in the final game. In the semi-finals Jarvis defeated Slide and Brumpton defeated Welliver.

The competition for the Stephenson trophy is now on. Several games have already been played, Jarvis defeated Welliver's rink; Drake defeated Harkness; Pinyley vs. Campbell and Brumpton vs. Beatty play to night.

CITY PROPERTY IS MOVING.

Notwithstanding the extremely cold winter our sales of Town Property since the first of the year have nearly doubled those of last year for the same period. We account for it by the fact that we aim to give the Public clear cut, definite values. If we advertise a property as bargain we are prepared to stake our reputation on its being such. The season for Farm Property movement is at hand. The following is a proposition that will net some one from $2 to $5 per acre profit in a few months—quarter section 8 miles from town on main road, 45 acres plowed, 75 acres fenced, excellent soil, old settled neighborhood, $10 per acre, easy terms.

Penhold.

Farmers have been busy this last week hauling grain.

Mr. Ward of Everts was in town recently.

N. Stewart is in Winnipeg on business.

What are platforms at stations generally intended for? We find that the one at Penhold is used chiefly for throwing freight and mail on to. Recently we notice a lady get off the train; not on to the platform though, but into a snowdrift where she got stuck, and but for the assistance of the brakeman would have had some difficulty in getting out.

The Penhold branch of the Alberta Farmer's Association met recently (A. Hives in the chair).
A fair meeting was held. There are now 25 on the membership role and quite a number have promised to join. The following resolutions were passed. To memorialize John T. Moore M.P.
P. re the bridge west of Penhold to respectfully ask the Minister of the Interior that the proposed Homestead Act may be altered so as to give the old settlers the right to take a pre-emption any where regardless of distance from homestead. To suggest to Central Association that they ask the Rail Road Co. to weigh grain and farm products at the shipping point. To suggest to the Central Association that membership badges or buttons be procured to be worn by members. Meeting adjourned to March 16th, when a paper will be read on hog raising
by Mr. James Speakman.

On Friday the Institute meeting was held in the School house at 8 p. m.

Blackfalds.

Mr. L. H. Hill our popular lumber merchant, and wife returned last week from a visit to their old home in Iowa. They reported no weather where they left and think that while we had it cold in Alberta, in Saskatchewan where Mr. Hill was detained three days on the down trip, it was colder still. After all there are worse places than Alberta.

Mr. John Cox of Stettler, formerly manager of the Blackfalds Creamery, paid us a visit Sunday
the 10th on his way for a visit east.

Blackfalds is I suppose one of the healthiest spots in the north west but once in a while people will get sick. Mrs. Woodie and Mrs. McVey and son have been ill enough to necessitate the doctor's call but we are glad to report that they are all convalescent.

there is something doing.

A farewell party was given by Mrs. Walker last Monday evening in honor of R. W. Faulks who is leaving for the old country this week, when a sleigh load of the young bachelors went from the vicinity, songs, games and amusements of all kinds lasted throughout the evening, after which the visitors did justice to a dainty luncheon provided by the ladies, arriving home in the even hours of the morn having spent one of the jolliest evenings of their lives.

The following on Everts, appeared in the Calgary Herald on Wednesday last. Here is Everts with its population of about 180 people, already an incorporated village, with an elected overseer, Ed. Good, and barely 3 years old.

A government creamery is here, in which the majority of the farmers of the immediate district have an interest. The output last summer being 37,000 lbs. of butter, which was very encouraging for a new industry.
Settlers are not slow to learn what a boon a nearby creamery is, and they very willingly promise to increase their kine and thereby increase their cheques for cream butter.

This go-a-head little village is situated about 23 miles west of Red Deer and enjoys the privilege of a direct telephone communication from there. We can boast of a fully licensed hotel and boarding house, implement warehouse, two general stores, a livestock, drug store, large school house, blacksmith shop

and three churches.

The Presbyterians are going to build a church early this year. To these we hope will soon be added
a bank, we have three sawmills in full swing not far away, and an ever-flowing river known as the Medicine river, which runs through this lovely valley.

The Ridings of Alberta

RED DEER FROM OLDS TO PONOKA.

The report of the committee that was selected by the House of Commons to divide the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan into Dominion government ridings has been presented.

MEDICINE HAT.

The riding of Medicine Hat is bounded on the east by the dividing line of Alberta and Saskatchewan; on the south by the International boundary line; on the north by the boundary line between townships 22 and 23 and on the west by the dividing line between townships 24 and 25 down to township 19 where the line moves one township east. The riding takes in Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Cardston, Gleichen,
Carbon and nearly all the morning country. The population is 24,781.

PINCHER CREEK.

Directly to the west of this riding are Macleod and Calgary.
The Macleod riding extends as far north as the dividing line between 22 and 23. It includes the Pass country and all the Macleod branch to Midnapore. The population is 23,903.

CALGARY.

The Calgary riding extends from and includes township 23
and 22, in the first draft Calgary was just one township higher up.
The riding goes as far east as Strathmore; goes to the B. C. boundary and as far north as Olds, taking in practically all of that town. The population is 29,252.

RED DEER.

The Red Deer riding extends north to the north of 43, which is one township north of Ponoka, except that the eastern part of townships 41, 44 and 43 from range 16
east is placed in the Strathcona riding. The population is 27,856.

STRATHCONA.

The largest riding is Strathcona which has a population of 29,431.
Its northern line is a broken one following the Saskatchewan to the town of Strathcona, then township 53 to Beaverhill lake, then the lower line of township 51 to range 16, then the lower line of township 50 to range 14, then the lower line of township 49 to the eastern boundary.

THE FAR NORTH.

The remaining territory is divided by a line running almost north from Edmonton. The west division with a population of 26,984 is called Edmonton, and the east with a population of 23,888, is called Victoria.
Saskatchewan: Souris, 35,263;
Qu'Appelle, 30,590; Saltcoats,
22,139; MacKenzie, 26,554; Robinson, 29,705; Battleford, 17,369;
Moose Jaw, 24,281; Saskatoon,
27,757; Prince Albert, 20,222;
Humboldt, 23,903.

The Edmonton Saturday News
this speaks of the Penhold A.F.
A. The farmers in that vicinity are of a kind that are almost sure to make a success of the organization work. They are sufficiently enterprising to put energy in what they undertake and sufficiently practical to avoid the impossible. A better combination could hardly be asked for.

J. J. Richards received word from J. E. Clarke, of Lethbridge relative to Buff Orpingtons purchased from him last fall. Mr.
Clarke reports having taken 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes and special prize for best pullet in show in a class of 250 birds, and now also special for young breeding pen. This is a splendid showing, and Mr.
Richards is gratified that his poultry is giving such satisfaction.

The "Joits" and "Jars" of Life

are what we people up.
Most people live pretty well up to the limit of their powers, and so long as everything goes smoothly that is apparently all right; but a "joit" or a "jar" in the shape of business worry, domestic anxiety, or an attack of La Grippe, Pneumonia, Typhoid, or other wasting disease, suddenly reveals the fact that there is a sad lack of reserve force to meet these contingencies and the result is serious, often fatal. A wise man will see to it that his system is fully fortified against sudden attack. To attain this result nothing is so sure and effective as

This fact has been fully established by

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
Author of "The Gentleman from Indiana" and "Monsieur Beaucaire"

Copyright, 1902, by B. S. McClure Co.

Since the world began life and industrious philosophers have speculated much upon the thoughts of men about to die, yet it cannot be too ingenious to believe that such thoughts vary as the men, their characters and conditions of life vary. Nevertheless, pursue the traditions of the past, and romance, it is conceivable that young unmarried men called upon to take desperate situations might, at the crucial moment, rush to a common experience of summing the vision, each of his heart's desire, and meet each his doom, with him upon his lips.

An extraordinary thing occurred in the present instance, for, by means of some fragmentary remarks, full at the time and afterward recalled, such as Tappinham Marsh's gasping, "At least it will be on her father's roof!" and from other things later overheard, an inevitable deduction has been reached that four of the five gentlemen in the parlous case herein described were acquainted with the person of the same person, to wit, Miss Elizabeth Carewe, "the last, the prettiest, to come to town."

Craigley Gray, alone, spoke not at all, but why did he strain and strain his eyes toward that empty and straitened vanishing parlor, while over his face stole the strange expression that ever man saw there, even, with weekly the last street suppers in the fancies of all five of the unhappy young men?

The coincidence of the actual appearance of the lady among them therefore seemed the more miraculous when, vain and hopeless, staggering desperately backward to the gable ridge, they heard a clear contralto voice behind them:

"Hadin't you better all come down now?" it said. "The stairway will be on fire before long."

Only one thing could have been more shockingly unexpected to the five than that there should be a sixth person on the roof, and this was that the sixth person should be Miss Betty Carewe.

They turned, aghast, aghast, chop-fallen with astonishment, stunned and incredulous.

The stood just behind the gable ridge, smiling amiably, a most incongruous little pink fan in her hand, the modest wreath partly of cecilia and curling between the five and her white dress, like mist floating across the new moon.

Was it but a kindly phantasm of the brain? Was it the incantation of the last vision of the lost volunteers? Was it a Valkyrie assuming that lovely likeness to perch upon this rocky walling to hear their heroic souls to Valhalla, or was it Miss Betty Carewe?

To the chief the spoke-alls of them agreed to that afterward—but it was Craigley who answered, while Tom could only stare and stand wagging his head at the lovely phantasm like a mandarin on a yes, yes, yes.

"My mother in heaven!" gasped Craigley. "You come up here!" "There's a" in the roof on the other side of the ridge," she said, and she began to fan herself with the pink fan. "A stairway runs all the way down—old Nelson showed me through these buildings yesterday—and that side isn't on fire yet. I'm so sorry I didn't think of it until a moment ago, because you could have brought the water up that way. But don't you think you'd better come down now?"

CHAPTER VII.
NOT savage Hun nor barbarous Vandike, nor demon upon the state of mind of the chief of the Tappinham Marsh's department; therefore let the curtain of mercy descend. Without a word, he turned and dragged the nozzle to the eastern eaves, whence, after a warning gesture to those below, he dropped it to the ground, and out of compassion, it should be little more than hinted that the gesture of warning was very slight.

When the rescued hand reached the foot of the last flight of stairs, he held the open doorway as a frame for a great press of intent and contorted faces, every eye still strained to watch the roof, none of the harrowed spectators comprehending the appearance of the girl's figure there, nor able to see whether she had led the five young men, until Tappinham Marsh raised a shout as he leaped out of the door and danced upon the solid earth again.

Then, indeed, there came a mighty uproar. Cheer after cheer ascended to the red vault of heaven. Women wept, men whooped and the people rushed for the heroes who could win a dancing arena. Jefferson Barend and Frank Chenoweth and General Truitt dashed at Tom Vanrevel with faces of such threatening, shaking, for his hands and beating him hysterically a parody to it known not speak." "Since the world began, and, as a matter of fact, no man ever had a more truthful pair of eyes than Craigley Gray, for it was his great accomplishment that he could adjust his eyes, his reason and something that might be called his faith to fit any situation in any character.

"You may take me home," she answered. "I may be wrong and even disloyal, but I do not feel it so now. You did a very brave thing tonight to save him from loss, and I think that you should have said."

"So they went down the street, the husband and confusion of the fire growing more and more indistinct behind them. They walked slowly, and for a time neither spoke, yet the silence was of a kind which the deafest of deaf people would have produced their second meeting. He waited until they passed into the shadows of the deserted street before he spoke. "There he came abruptly, and that she turned, astonished.

"Now that you have saved my life," he said in a low, tremulous tone, "what are you going to do with it?"

Her eyes opened almost as widely as his and at her first sight of him, her garden. There was a long pause before she replied, and when she did it was to his considerable surprise.

"I have never seen a play except the funny little ones we acted at the convent," she said. "But isn't that the way they speak on the stage?" "Craigley replied that he did not know, the prophetic soul of the chief was so happily assured that Craigley would offer himself as escort to her home and had accepted. But why not? Was it because he had publicly called his fellow man fool, idiot, imbecile, at the top of his lungs only to find himself the proven possessor of the only one who stood for a moment staring after the vanishing pair, while over his face stole the strange expression that ever man saw there, even, with weekly the last street suppers in the fancies of all five of the unhappy young men?

At the corner of the warehouse Miss Carewe detached her hand from Craigley's, yet still followed him as he made a quick detour round the next building. A minute or two later they found themselves, and Miss Betty Carewe, in the rear of the crowd. There Craigley paused.

"Forgive me," he said breathlessly, "for saying you are a fool. I thought you would like to get away."

She regarded him gravely, so that he found it difficult to read her look, except that it was seriously questioning. "Whether the lady was being addressed to him or to herself he could not determine. After a silence she said:

"I do not know why I followed you. I believe it must have been because you didn't give me time to think."

"This, of course, made him even quicker with her than before. "It's all over," he said briskly. "The first war-bone is gone, the second will go, but they'll save the others easily enough now that you have pointed out the lines may be utilized otherwise than as adjuncts of performances on the high trapeze. They were standing by a plumed fence and, in the end, against it, overcome by mirth in which she did not join. Her gravity reacted upon him at once, and his laughter was stopped short by her quick acceptance of him as an escort to her home?" he said formally.

"I do not know," she returned simply, the sort of honest trouble in her glance that is seen only in very young eyes.

"What reason in the world?" he returned, with a crafty sharpness of astonishment.

She continued to gaze upon him thoughtfully, while he tried to look into her eyes, wondering for him, for though the radiant beams from the lady's orbs, as the elder Chenoweth might have said, rested somewhere dangerously near his eyes, whether for him or for them, his chin made no retreat and was far from ill looking, it was nevertheless that feature which he most distrusted.

"Because," she answered at last, speaking hesitatingly—"because it isn't so easy a matter for you to seem to know, as it is for me. You have not been introduced to me, and I know you never will be, and that what you told me was true."

"What part of that would you like to know?" she asked. "The question escaped from him instantly.

"That the others might come when they liked, but that you could not. My father's expression altered to a sincere dejection, his shoulders drooped and his voice indicated supreme annoyance. "You might know one way or the other. Who was it? Did they say 'I'?"

"On account of your quarrel with my father?" she asked. "My quarrel with your father?" he exclaimed, and his face lit with an elated surprise. His shoulders straightened. He took a step nearer her and asked eagerly, "Who told you that?"

"My father himself. He spoke of a Mr. Vanrevel whom he disliked and whom I must not meet, and, remembering what you had said, of course I knew that you were he."

"Oh!" Craigley's lips began to form a smile of such appealing and intimate sweetness that Voltaire would have trusted him, a smile altogether rare. "Then I lose you," he said, "for only such a knowledge to know you was in keeping, and what I might and in the very action his lurking pleasure in doing it hopped out in the flicker of a moment in his eyes and as instantly sought cover again—the fire in the rose jar."

"Then you must ask me some," he said frankly. "A disinterested person would tell you the truth. The difference in the beginning, but because personal afterward, and it is now a quarrel which can never be patched up, though, for my part, I wish that I could be. I can say no more, because

Uncle Sam's Navy.

The Attraction It Now Offers to Bright Young Men.

The new law opening to the sailors the avenues of promotion to the commissioned ranks will have a tendency to attract the better class of our youth who are ambitious and whose circumstances have barred them from opportunities for advancement in other directions. In 1901, congress authorized the secretary of the navy to commission each year twelve sailors as warrant officers. To receive this promotion a sailor must have been in the service seven years, served one year as a first class petty officer and examined and passed upon the theoretical part of his calling. This latter requirement renders it necessary for him to devote his spare time to study in accordance with this test he is given a tentative appointment as gunner, boatswain, carpenter or electrician, and after a year's duty being satisfactorily performed for one year he becomes a warrant officer at $12,000 per year sea pay, with an increase of $100 each year for the next three years. The fourth year his salary is $1,000 and after twelve years' service reaches $1,800. At sixty-two years of age he is retired on three-fourths pay for life.

Those whose ambition reaches beyond the warrant officer can have it satisfied through the rank of Ensign. The German, sent out the Irene on an unrequited errand and without the customary notification to his parents, the Ensign, who had been a sailor, was promoted to the rank of Ensign. A bright and studious young man entering the navy as a sailor at seventeen months of age, after five years became a commissioned officer and retired at sixty-two with the rank of Captain. Joseph Jenkins in Leslie's Weekly.

One Centimeter in 127,000.

The latest of George Murray Humphrey proves that there is about one-centimeter in over 127,000 people and that of seventy authorized people are one reached 110 years, three only are said to have lived to the age of 100. The full extremes of the various powers, mental and bodily, is conducive to great age, so that there need be no fear of outliving one's earthly life, with full interest and energy into the assigned work of life, physical and mental. The inhabitants of the various countries, and in the North American, point with pride to the corner of hale and hearty octogenarians, and the fact that the old men living among them as an evidence of their healthy environment and hygienic lives. So in Paris, with its 1,000,000 inhabitants and some 100,000 foreigners, 80 of whom are approaching their hundredth year. Six inhabitants of Paris are more than 102 years of age.—London Herald.

Thankfulness.

I am not too old to the people who receive the bounties of Providence with visible gratitude. When the sickle falls into your hat you may laugh. When the messenger of an unexpected blessing takes you by the hand and lifts you up and bids you walk you may leap and run and sing for joy, even for some time when St. Peter beaded skipped piously and rejoiced alone as he passed through the beautiful gate of the temple. There is no virtue in solemnity and thankfulness is as much a duty as beneficence to the friends of the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

Unfair.

Another unfair thing in life—the bride, with a wealth of hair, wears a wig, and the groom, with a bald spot and really needs a veil to cover it, is denied the privilege.

Your Doctor

Can cure your Cough or Cold, no question about that, but will go to all the trouble and inconvenience of looking him up, and then of having him prescribe pills, when you can get into any drug store in Canada and obtain a bottle of SHILOH'S CURE.

Why pay two to five dollars when you can get a five cent bottle of SHILOH'S cure for you as quickly?

Why make do as hundreds of thousands of Canadians have done for the past thirty-four years: let SHILOH be your doctor whenever a Cough or Cold appears.

SHILOH will cure you, and all druggists back up this statement with a positive guarantee.

Why make do as hundreds of thousands of Canadians have done for the past thirty-four years: let SHILOH be your doctor whenever a Cough or Cold appears.

SHILOH'S CURE

BIRTH OF "A HYMN."

Story of the Origin of "In the Sweet By and By."

A song of national celebration, "In the Sweet By and By," written by S. J. Bennett of Elkhorn, Wis., had its birth in a country store. Mr. Bennett told the story, which is given in "Wisconsin in Three Centuries," as follows:

It was about time for closing business in the evening when J. P. Webster, whose melodies have made Wisconsin famous, was in the store, for some time before he came.

I said to Webster, "What is the matter now?"

"The idea of the hymn came to me like a flash of sunshine, and I replied: 'The sweet by and by. Why would the sweet be a good hymn?'"

"Maybe it would," he said indifferently.

It turned to my desk and penned the hymn as fast as I could write. I handed it to Mr. Webster. As he read it his eyes kindled and his whole face glowed. Stepping to the door, he began writing the notes instantly.

In a few moments he requested Mr. Bright to hand him his violin, and he played with little hesitation the beautiful melody from the notes.

A few moments later he had jotted down the notes for the different parts and the hymn was ready.

I do not think it was more than thirty minutes from the time I took my pencil to write the words before the hymn was ready for the printer. It was completed and four of us were singing it exactly as it appeared in the Signal Ring a few days later and as it has been sung the world over ever since.

A NAVAL REBUKE.

Two Admirals, a Captain and a Poet in Manila Bay.

When Dewey's fleet was at Manila the late Admiral Clichester was then satisfied through the rank of Ensign. The German, sent out the Irene on an unrequited errand and without the customary notification to his parents, the Ensign, who had been a sailor, was promoted to the rank of Ensign. There is no virtue in solemnity and thankfulness is as much a duty as beneficence to the friends of the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

Unfair.

Another unfair thing in life—the bride, with a wealth of hair, wears a wig, and the groom, with a bald spot and really needs a veil to cover it, is denied the privilege.

Thankfulness.

I am not too old to the people who receive the bounties of Providence with visible gratitude. When the sickle falls into your hat you may laugh. When the messenger of an unexpected blessing takes you by the hand and lifts you up and bids you walk you may leap and run and sing for joy, even for some time when St. Peter beaded skipped piously and rejoiced alone as he passed through the beautiful gate of the temple. There is no virtue in solemnity and thankfulness is as much a duty as beneficence to the friends of the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

OBSTINATE FACE SORES

REFUSED TO CLOSE FOR 4 YEARS

Zam-Buk Healed Them Inside Two Months.

Have you some eruption, or sore, or ulcer, or wound, on any part of your body which has resisted every effort to close, no matter how treated? If so, that is a case for Zam-Buk. The heretofore said essence in this balm is so powerful that they can heal the worst cases of chronic sores, ulcers, skin-disease, and skin diseases. Here are proofs of this.

Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of North Bay, Ont. says: "I had a nasty spot, as big as a ten cent piece on my face. I had it for four years, and hardly a night passed that time went by but what I applied cold cream, or some ointment or other, but it would not close. I recently applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time the spot had disappeared. I cannot thank you enough for your remedy, and I tell everyone to be sure and keep Zam-Buk in their house."

Mrs. S. Holden, of 343 West Hannah St., Hamilton, says: "My little girl had a running sore on her leg which would not close. I applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time the wound was closed. I have since applied Zam-Buk to several other skin troubles and injuries."

Mr. J. H. Hamilton, of Thornbury, says: "The first Zam-Buk I obtained was for a friend who had an old ulcer on his temple. It had been treated once or twice by a doctor, and would not close. I applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time, but would break out again. Zam-Buk healed it permanently, and shows no sign whatever of returning."

Similar grateful testimony is to be had from many of the Zam-Buk people of Canada. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin diseases, such as ulcers, burns, bruises, eczema, and all the scalp sores, cold sores, chapped hands, itch, rash, nettle, face sores, etc.

It is also an unequalled cure for skin troubles and injuries. Mr. J. H. Hamilton, of Thornbury, says: "The first Zam-Buk I obtained was for a friend who had an old ulcer on his temple. Daisy's Trunk

By GEORGE STAIR

Copyright, 1908, by Homer Sprague

"You should have sent your trunk in the train ahead," said Compton. "Just now there is a press of baggage, and you cannot get your trunk out in time to get the other train."

"But I must," insisted Daisy, with pretty impetuosity. "If I have that trunk, the yacht will have left and I shall miss the trip. She will be sent south next month, and I shall not have another chance."

"I see what I can do," he volunteered. "But I am afraid that it looks very much like a hopeless case."

"You can do it," said Daisy confidently as she settled back in her seat with the air of one who dismisses discussion. Somehow Compton gave one confidence in his powers of accomplishment. Ever since she had been a child she had let him do things for her. He had always seemed a handy man, and precisely because he was so handy he had urged his suit on her. Daisy had just now Dick Tomlin was the favored artist. Dick was to meet her at the station and take her over to the other railroad, where she would connect with the train for the shore where her brother was waiting for her on his yacht.

In spite of her liking for Tomlin she was glad when Frank Compton's form loomed up in the aisle of the car. Dick was not a good man, with Frank about she knew that her trunk would be assured.

Compton sank into the seat beside her. "I suppose there is some favored man waiting for you," he suggested.

Daisy blushed.

"Dick Tomlin said he might be there," she admitted.

Compton smiled.

"If he said that he might be there, he assured that he will," he said gravely.

"Will he be the one, Dick?"

"You are always thinking about my getting married," she pouted. "I don't see why we can't just be good friends, Frank."

"Because I want to be something better than good friends," he explained. "I want you for my wife and you merely laugh at my ideas."

"I've known you ages," she explained. "You seem more like a big brother."

"So a newcomer wins the prize," he sighed.

"Please don't speak about it," pleaded Daisy. "You know I hate to hurt you."

Compton settled back in his seat with a sigh. That was the explanation of it all. Daisy had known him all her life. It was the new face that won her attention. There was no hope for her. The train was pulling into the station before she could speak.

"Let me have your check," he said quietly.

"I have your check," she said.

"I'll take it," he said.

she asked, with a smile. "You got it, I hope?" he said quickly. "I mean my trunk," he explained. "The Potters told me about it. It seems that they saw you make the exchange."

"It was the only way to avoid a delay," he said. "That accounts for my not coming to say goodbye." "You are a dear old fellow," she said softly. "When I heard the story from the Potters and remembered how Dick complained because you were on the train with me, I saw the difference between the two cases."

"And?" he questioned. "The contrast was in your favor," she said. "I saw the story from the Potters and remembered how Dick complained because you were on the train with me, I saw the difference between the two cases."

"I want one with a seal like a trunk check," she said as she followed. "I planned it all out on the boat."

"Bless the trunk check," said Compton fervently.

Still First in All Events.

Teachers and pupils of a high school in New Jersey were amazed one morning when the principal suddenly ordered all the classes to assemble in the auditorium. Their amazement increased, says a writer in the New York Press, when he began to address them on "George Washington, the Father of Our Country."

When the principal finished his remarks he paused impressively for a moment, and then went on in his severest tone: "The bust of George Washington which stood upon the pedestal in the reception hall has been removed and placed upon the floor, with its face in the corner. Until the culprit, whoever he is, has been found, no one is to be admitted to the school."

There was a great sensation. Teachers exchanged glances, pupils giggled round, and a frightened. The principal, holding himself very erect, faced them solemnly.

"I am waiting," he said.

Then the janitor stepped forward and relieved the situation.

"The roof was leaked," he said.

Mr. Washburn was in the drip, and I thought it proper to move it to keep the rain from spilling it, and I meant no insult by turning its face to the wall, sir."

"The school is dismissed," said the principal.

A Grateful Town.

A man who had been born and reared in a small town in the interior went to one of the large cities, engaged in business and accumulated a fortune. After a lapse of twenty-five years he made a visit to his native village. Desiring to do something for the place, he permitted the municipality to acquire the principal street for a long term of years and telegraphed an order for a first class chemical engine and other apparatus.

Having previously secured the promise of the village trustees that a volunteer fire department would be organized at once he had the engine delivered, and seeing the engine installed in the building after he went away.

A few days after his return to the village he found a note pinned to his door, a copy of the local paper. It contained a full account of his philanthropic action and expressed the gratitude of the citizens for his liberality, but wound up thus:

"There is a general feeling, however, that a man who had been born and reared in a small town in the interior went to one of the large cities, engaged in business and accumulated a fortune. The Story of who we are and why we are here. READ.

The Dominion Brokerage Company are the largest merchandise brokers in the world. We handle merchandise stocks of all kinds, and turn the same into cash in a given time. Ouimette & Wright are the oldest and most reliable merchants, holding an enviable reputation for fair dealing and straightforwardness in business. This firm could, by a long drawn clearing sale, reduce their stock to a nominal sum, but prefer placing it in the hands of a reliable concern who would deal with the people as they would themselves. Therefore this stock has been placed in our hands to turn into cash in 10 days only.

This stock is known all over the country as the best selected general merchandise stock in Alberta, and it looks like a shame to slaughter that elegant stock. But we must sell this stock and when the Dominion Brokerage Company gets hold of a big stock like this we simply use the knife and cut prices so low that no person of any intelligence can afford to stay away from our sale.
